Reflect on what it has been like to remain at a distance from people you care about and love. Also reflect on the global implications of what is going on. Now create a brain bubble map of objects that you feel goes hand in hand with Isolation so far during this pandemic. You could think relative to you or on a bigger scale. Then, just how you practiced with the video on page 81, create a detailed contour drawing of this object. 4. Create a contour drawing of the environment where you have been spending your time of isolation. Be careful observing and draw each object in your environment. You have two weeks to complete this drawing so take your time and observe objects carefully as you draw.
